

My name is Anastasia Polychronidou (1991), I live and work in the Netherlands. I studied Drama at the Faculty of Fine Arts at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, with a specialization in Dramaturgy and Performance Theory. I continued my studies at Utrecht University, where I earned a Master's Degree in Contemporary Theatre, Dance and Dramaturgy. Since then, I worked with dancers and choreographers, as a dramaturgy consultant in Greece and abroad. I attend physical theatre workshops and participate in dramaturgy courses and contemporary dance classes.

In September 2019 I started an internship at Theater Kikker under the guidance of programmer Jolie Vreeburg. My goals are to act like a drama critic/reviewer, provide evaluation of theatre and dance performances and share honest reflections on art. Alongside this, my wish is to gain new insights into the production and programming for a theatre, identify strengths and weaknesses and serve as a motivation for Theater Kikker to improve its productivity.
